

What Can Lawyers Learn From Actors?

Communicating with Judges and Juries

Presented By Act of Communication

October 1, 12:20
Room 132

Lunch Provided

“Attorneys and actors share a common mission: to rivet the listener’s attention on the drama at hand, control their point of view, lead their instincts, and then convince their minds of the story’s desired end... with an ovation for the actor, a decisive win for the attorney.”

As professionals who make a living in film, television and theatre, Act of Communication’s founders have appeared in hundreds of television shows, scores of films and with dozens of repertory companies and theatres throughout the world. Over the past thirty years, they have also have brought state-of-the-art trial communication skills to over 30,000 attorneys and their witnesses. Now they bring those skills to UT Law.

<http://www.actofcommunication.com/>

University of Tennessee College of Law
Center for Advocacy & Dispute Resolution